Lisa --

Welcome to your new post at EPA !

Sandra Connors and I enjoyed meeting with you as part of the Obama Administration's transition.

You may recall some of the difficulties we shared with you regarding federal facility compliance , particularly with the military at Superfund cleanup sites . The situation is already improving, thanks in large part to the Administration's general commitment to environmental protection and to Cynthia's support for our mission.

All best, and we look forward to working with you in the future.

MEMORANDUM

SUBJECT: Announcement of new Associate Administrators

FROM: Administrator Lisa P. Jackson

TO: All EPA Employees

I would like to share news of three key appointments to the senior staff at EPA: Lisa Heinzerling, who has been named Associate Administrator for the Office of Policy, Economics and Innovation (OPEI); David McIntosh, who has been appointed as Associate Administrator for the Office of Congressional and Intergovernmental Relations (OCIR); and Seth Oster, who recently assumed the position of Associate Administrator for the Office of Public Affairs (OPA).

I am extremely pleased that Lisa, David and Seth have accepted these appointments. They each bring extraordinary experience and expertise to their respective positions and will play integral roles in working with me and the rest of the EPA's senior management in helping to move our agenda forward. All three appointments are effective immediately.

Lisa has spent the past months as my chief advisor on climate issues, helping move our efforts forward at a critical time. At OPEI, Lisa will bring her considerable experience and intellect to bear on solving some of our most pressing environmental and economic challenges. She will also continue to play a role advising me on climate matters.

David has spent the past months working as a principal advisor to me on legislative climate issues, and now assumes overall responsibility for our government relations at the national, state and local levels. He has an extensive background on Capitol Hill and on environmental and energy issues generally. He will be an enormous asset, particularly with the legislative agenda before us now and going forward.

Seth brings to the EPA and the Office of Public Affairs broad experience from both inside and outside of government. In directing the work of OPA, he will play a vital role in leading our efforts to reach out to new communities and consistencies, promoting environmental education initiatives and generating public support for EPA's mission.

As we welcome Lisa, David and Seth, I also want to note – with gratitude – the work of several others. In particular, Marcia Mulkey and Joyce Frank have skillfully managed OPEI and OCIR, respectively, as Acting Associate Administrators. Their efforts, and those of many others within the Office of the Administrator, have greatly facilitated our transition and ably supported the agency's accomplishments during these first six months.

Again, congratulations and thanks to Lisa, David and Seth. Please join me in welcoming them.

Sincerely,
Lisa P. Jackson

Gina,

Exciting developments; see below. As I explained in a voicemail I just left for you, I am hoping that you can sign off on behalf of OAR without forwarding this memo to anyone. This process has been bedeviled by leaks. Also, the memo basically goes through the kinds of arguments EPA has been making all along, so I don't believe there should be any surprises for you.

If you could let me know by tomorrow afternoon whether you approve, I'd appreciate it.

Beyond the memo itself, the very approval of the memo will also be a close-hold kind of item.

Thanks, Gina.

Hi Lisa,

It was great to see you again at the recent OW briefing on adaptation for the Administrator.

Thanks for the opportunity to review the CEQ interagency memo on adaptation. (I apologize for not responding sooner, but I just returned from a trip to Region 5 in Chicago.) (b) (5)

I hope this brief summary of 4 major issues is helpful. I'm flying to Cincinnati today to visit one of our labs. But please don't hesitate to call me if I can provide you with any additional information (cell: (b) (6))

On a related note, I'd like to follow up with you, if it's okay with you, to discuss the recent briefing for the Administrator. As you know, the briefing focused primarily on OW's adaptation work, and did not capture the extent and breadth of our ORD Global Change Research Program's adaptation activities. (b) (5)

I'd like to explore with you the possibility of arranging a briefing for the Administrator on our ORD Global Program (if you think it would be helpful and appropriate, as she sorts out how she wants to proceed with adaptation issues within the Agency).

Thanks for your consideration of this matter, Lisa.

Have a great day! I look forward to speaking with you again soon.

Hi Bob - Diane asked me to check with you about whether you're covering the MOU on transmission among about 8 federal agencies including EPA. Charles I. says CEQ contacted you about this the other day. Are you on top of this, or do we all need to figure out who will cover it?

I actually hope you're not reading this on your day off, but if you are, have a good day!

Lisa - Below is an invitation to an informal meeting with EU climate negotiators next week. It is last minute but I think it will be an invaluable meeting (and State seems to be opening up the interagency process a bit). Dina and I discussed it and agree that there would definitely be value to your participation - particularly on the first morning during discussions with Jonathan on overall strategy and possibly the Copenhagen end-game. Dina can do the 2nd day when things get more specific about MRV, offsets etc.

Dina and Leif will be at the interagency MRV meeting tomorrow morning, and can let them know if you're interested in participating.

Hi Katie and Lisa – As Peter's counselor, I am attaching some text that reflects the input of many agencies – including DOT, EPA, CEQ, OSTP, Treasury, CEA, OECC, OMB, and NEC -- on the social cost of carbon. This is not in any sense formal OMB guidance. It is instead an effort to reflect, as best as possible, a diverse assortment of views, so as to provide the basis for a unified position. (b) (5)

[Redacted text block]

As noted, this is not formal OMB guidance, and it is a preliminary, deliberative document, not for the public but for purely internal use. One hope is that DOT and EPA can revise and edit, as you see fit, this discussion, and use it as the basis for a single discussion of the SCC for upcoming rules. Because this is a preliminary effort to explain interim values, public comments should of course be invited.

Because I am helping to coordinate this discussion, I'd be happy to talk at any time -- Cass

Hi Lisa and Gina,

On Monday Morning, we will file with the Senate Agriculture Committee a written opening statement from Administrator Jackson, for the hearing that she will appear at on Wednesday afternoon. Attached is the current draft of that written opening statement. It has been through review by EPA career staff (including OAR and OGC), and by Larry Elworth, the Administrator's agriculture advisor. Please let me know if you see any problems with it. Otherwise, I will give it to Administrator Jackson around this time tomorrow. If she approves it, then it will go into inter-agency review on Friday morning. (b) (5)

I work at NESCAUM in Boston and each year we sponsor a summer symposium with MIT. This year, the topic is "New Directions in Energy Policy and Impacts on Regional Air Quality."

I know that you are now at EPA working on climate change. We will be honored by your presence and participation. As the Agenda would indicate, we have some very well known speakers including many you know. The attendance is many state air directors, private sector, and academics.

Please let me know if you are able to attend. I would be more than happy to call and explain more about the symp. E-mail is not my favorite way to communicate.

Subject: Summary Paragraph on the Climate Action Report

Dear Gina,

The United States, along with other Annex 1 Parties, is required under Articles 4 and 12 of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) to submit a National Communication to the UNFCCC Secretariat once every four years. National Communications are intended to document the actions that Parties are taking to help achieve the ultimate objective of the Convention. The format of each National Communication must follow strict guidelines for content and includes information on: the Party's inventory of GHG emissions and sinks; an assessment of vulnerabilities to and impacts of climate change; a description of policies and measures undertaken to implement the Convention; projections of future emissions; financial resources and technology transfer; research and systematic observation; and education, training and outreach. The U.S. National Communication is called the Climate Action Report -- or CAR. The next report, due January 1, 2010, will be the fifth report we have submitted - or CAR 5.

Last week the State Department launched the USG process for developing the CAR 5. The USG develops its National Communication through an inter agency process, lead by the State Dept. EPA plays a big role -- this year, as in the past, we are responsible for developing the chapters on: the U.S. GHG inventory; U.S. policies and measures; projections of future GHG emissions. (b) (5)

[REDACTED]

(b) (5)

(b) (5)

Note that the July 7th memorandum from Carol Browner on this process lists EPA as the lead for Chapter 9: Education, Training, and Awareness. EPA was the lead for this chapter for the 2006 report. This year, NOAA will be the lead (we volunteered it to them given their interest and expertise)

Let me know what else you need, Beth

Hi Lisa,

Here is what we know about today's meeting. I'm glad to follow-up with our folks ASAP with any thoughts or suggestions (I'm at 564-6587).

The meeting (invite below) was arranged by Maurice Le Franc on detail from OAR's Climate Change Division to State Department. From OAR, Reed Harvey, Bella Tonkonogy, Stephanie Waldhoff and Alen Fawcett are invited. We expect that Jonathon Pershing will attend from State. Joe Aldy is invited. Billy Pizer (Treasury) is invited too. Mark Heil from Treasury is invited and confirmed to attend. As we understand it, Reed Harvey (OAR) requested that Richard Garbaccio and Ann Wolverton be added to the invite list. I believe the role of NCEE in this discussion is to provide support in the form of economic expertise and familiarity with the Frankel approach, as well as alternative approaches. The general subject is economic analysis needed to support international efforts on climate change. Bella Tonkonogy works in the Climate Change Division (OAR). She has sent some advanced materials for the State Department meeting (attached).

Subject: Summary Paragraph on the Climate Action Report

Dear Gina,

The United States, along with other Annex 1 Parties, is required under Articles 4 and 12 of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) to submit a National Communication to the UNFCCC Secretariat once every four years. National Communications are intended to document the actions that Parties are taking to help achieve the ultimate objective of the Convention. The format of each National Communication must follow strict guidelines for content and includes information on: the Party's inventory of GHG emissions and sinks; an assessment of vulnerabilities to and impacts of climate change; a description of policies and measures undertaken to implement the Convention; projections of future emissions; financial resources and technology transfer; research and systematic observation; and education, training and outreach. The U.S. National Communication is called the Climate Action Report -- or CAR. The next report, due January 1, 2010, will be the fifth report we have submitted - or CAR 5.

Last week the State Department launched the USG process for developing the CAR 5. The USG develops its National Communication through an inter agency process, lead by the State Dept. EPA plays a big role -- this year, as in the past, we are responsible for developing the chapters on: the U.S. GHG inventory; U.S. policies and measures; projections of future GHG emissions. (b) (5)

[REDACTED]

Note that the July 7th memorandum from Carol Browner on this process lists EPA as the lead for Chapter 9: Education, Training, and Awareness. EPA was the lead for this chapter for the 2006 report. This year, NOAA will be the lead (we volunteered it to them given their interest and expertise)

Let me know what else you need, Beth

Lisa asked that I continue to attend the interagency meetings on international climate negotiations in the interim period before Michelle, you, and I -- with Lisa -- work out our respective roles in this arena .

There is a modeling meeting at State tomorrow. I had sent an email to you about it last week, and I think you are looking into who is going to what meetings and for what purpose. Do you know who is attending tomorrow's meeting? It would be good for me to be able to touch base with that person or those persons before the meeting.

Thanks.

Dina - no worries. I am just perplexed at the way in which items like this pop up and want to make sure that we manage internal communications effectively before any release. As you may guess, Lisa H needs to be in the loop whenever we have climate on the agenda. I am aware of this report form past years but let's make sure we look at it for consistency with other efforts underway in your shop before it goes live.

I will work with Don to make sure we track these things in ways that allow the appropriate heads -up when things break loose from internal review.

Gina,

Heard you might have questions about the Climate Indicators Report. It has not been printed or released yet. The report summarizes scientific data on climate indicators in various areas (e.g., GHG emissions, atmospheric concentrations, sea level rise, ice melt). The development and tracking of environmental indicators is standard across many pollution issues, and help with understanding the pace and extent of a problem and measuring results of mitigation actions in the future. In developing this report, we worked with other USG science agencies, and at this point, the report is undergoing its final internal review. Staff has had discussions with the press staff in both OAR and OPA to explore options for how and when it might be released, but no decisions have been made. So there is no reason for anyone to get alarmed, and we're happy to brief you or others as desired.

Please be assured that we are committed to no surprises on climate issues (including reports like this) and we were planning to have a full discussion of any concerns/considerations before finalizing any plans for its release.

Next Steps:

-Each Cabinet agency will designate a point person for this effort who can participate in daily calls and facilitate the cabinet members participation

-BH will circulate the list of representatives that will participate from WH offices

-Further info on weekly messages and targets will be developed and distributed next week.

-BH will circulate a schedule (and start date) for daily calls.

Thanks again.

Dear Chiefs of Staff:

Please see the below fact sheet from the meeting on energy and climate change challenges.

THE WHITE HOUSE
Office of the Press Secretary

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

July 9, 2009

Meeting the International Clean Energy and Climate Change
Challenges

Every nation on this planet is at risk. And just as no one nation is responsible for climate change, no one nation can address it alone. That is why, back in April, I convened this forum of the world's major economies – responsible for more than three-quarters of the world's carbon pollution. And it is why we have gathered again here today.

--President Barack Obama

July 9, 2009, L'Aquila, Italy

From his first days in office, President Obama has made it a top priority of the United States to accelerate our transformation to a clean energy economy and combat climate change. President Obama is committed to leading the way through strong domestic actions and working with partners around the world to achieve an international agreement that will promote the clean energy technologies necessary to lower global greenhouse gas emissions in the developed and developing worlds alike.

As a key part of this effort, President Obama launched the Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. The forum convened at the Leaders level in L'Aquila, Italy on July 9, 2009, in a meeting co-chaired by President Obama and Prime Minister Berlusconi.

The Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate

The Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate (MEF) brings together 17 developed and developing economies to engage in a meaningful dialogue on clean energy technology and the need to secure a broad international agreement to combat climate change.

The Leaders held candid and constructive discussions culminating in a declaration that reflects real progress on the road to the Copenhagen climate conference in December and real progress in paving the way for the development and deployment of transformational technologies.

The Leaders found common ground among the critical pillars of mitigation, adaptation, finance and technology, which are necessary for any successful agreement in Copenhagen. This complements the significant progress made by the G8 Leaders on these issues in their meeting in L'Aquila. In particular, the G8 Leaders agreed to reduce their emissions 80% or more by 2050 as its share of a global goal to lower emissions 50% by 2050, acknowledging the broad scientific view that warming should be limited to no more than two degrees Celsius.

On the heels of this progress, the MEF Leaders underscored their commitment to continue to work together to strengthen the world's ability to combat climate change and to facilitate agreement in Copenhagen. The Leaders recognized that climate change poses a clear and present danger requiring an extraordinary global response, and outlined a series of steps to meet this challenge head on.

Regarding emission mitigation, Leaders:

- Agreed that global and national emissions should peak as soon as possible;
- Agreed that MEF developed countries will promptly undertake actions to produce robust reductions in their emissions in the midterm, consistent with their ambitious, long-term objectives.
- Agreed that MEF developing countries will promptly undertake actions projected to result in a meaningful reduction of emissions below their business-as-usual path in the midterm;
- Agreed to prepare low-carbon growth plans to guide their long-term development.
- Agreed to work between now and Copenhagen to identify a global goal for substantially reducing global emissions by 2050, recognizing the science indicating that global warming should not exceed two degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels;
- Committed to reduce emissions from deforestation and forest degradation.

Regarding the advancement of clean energy technology, Leaders:

- Agreed to establish a Global Partnership to drive transformational low-carbon technologies;

- Aimed to double investments in public sector research, development and demonstration of transformational technology;
- Agreed to spearhead efforts on technologies through the leadership of the following countries:
  - o The United States on energy efficiency;
  - o Germany on solar energy;
  - o The Republic of Korea and Italy on smart grids;
  - o Australia and the UK on carbon capture, use, and storage;
  - o Japan and India on high-efficiency and lower-emissions coal technologies;
  - o Canada on advanced vehicles;
  - o Germany, Denmark and Spain on wind; and
  - o Brazil and Italy on bio-energy.

These countries will report by November 15, 2009, on action plans and roadmaps, and make recommendations for further progress.

Regarding financing, Leaders:

- Elaborated a broad set of principles to guide the design of a financial system that will support the deployment of new technologies to promote energy security, lower greenhouse gas emissions, and facilitate adaptation to climate change;
- Agreed, among other thing, that financing needs to be scaled up substantially; should come from a variety of sources, both public and private; should be more predictable; should draw upon the expertise of existing institutions; and should be subject to balanced governance and clear accountability;

- Asked their finance ministers to work through the G20 to recommend in advance of the Copenhagen conference the best ways to mobilize necessary financing.

Regarding adaptation, Leaders:

- Agreed that there is a particular and immediate need to assist the poorest and most vulnerable to adapt to the impacts of climate change;
- Committed to work to develop, deploy and disseminate technologies that advance adaptation efforts, especially for the world's poorest and most vulnerable populations.

The 17 economies that participate in the MEF are: Australia, Brazil, Canada, China, the European Union, France, Germany, India, Indonesia, Italy, Japan, Korea, Mexico, Russia, South Africa, the United Kingdom, and the United States. In addition, Denmark, in its capacity as the President of the December 2009 Conference of the Parties to the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change, and the United Nations are also participating in this dialogue.

As we discussed on Tuesday, I have given the State Dept a tentative list of the EPA delegation for the August climate mtg in Bonn. These are the tentative delegates from OAR:

Leif Hockstad
Kim Klunich
Scott Bartos

Could you please a) confirm whether each of these people will be attending, and b) describe each person's specific role at the meeting?

I need to give our final list to State by Friday, July 17.

Thanks, Gina.

Perfect! Thank you so much for e-mailing.

I am looking forward to participating in the climate negotiations and I think that coordinating our participation makes alot of sense. I will actually be there tomorrow for the Budget meeting, and over scheduled myself after the meeting with OIA Director meetings! But, I can try and look for you afterwards for a few minutes....around 3pm? If you are busy then, we can talk over the phone on Thursday afternoon or Friday.

Hi Michelle!

I hope you're doing well. We're all really looking forward to your arrival here .

I'm writing to ask whether you have given any thought to what role you might like to play , if any, in the international climate negotiations happening from now through Copenhagen in December . Typically there is some EPA political presence at these meetings. I went to the meeting in Bonn in June and plan to go again in August. There are also meetings, before December, in Barcelona and Bangkok. I would like to get a sense of whether you are interested in participating in these meetings and , if so, how we might coordinate our participation. If you're interested in participating, we could, for example, stagger our attendance so that each of us covers some portion of the meetings.

Could you let me know if there is a time when you could talk about this ?

Thanks a lot.

Dear Ms. Heinzerling,

Ceres, the Center for Energy and Environmental Security, and Environmental Defense Fund respectfully submitted the attached joint letter to Administrator Jackson, SEC Chair Mary Schapiro, and CEQ Chair Nancy Sutley on the opportunity for coordination in carrying out the SEC's responsibilities to ensure climate-related disclosure for investors -- in light of EPA's rulemaking governing the national reporting of greenhouse gases.

Sincerely yours,

Here are my comments on Qs 1 and 2. I was not able to read the PDF of the letter, so Ben and Rona should do that. I didn't have add'l comments on 3 and 4. Ben and Rona -please revise/improve as needed. Since I'm on the BB, I can't track change. Hopefully, this is coherent, not confusing. Its hard to draft this on the BB, so hope this is useful.

Hi Lisa,

In response to Michael Greenstone's request for more technical information, the NCEE and OAR SCC modeling group put together a spreadsheet explaining the underlying parameters and damage functions for the PAGE, DICE, and FUND models. There are no parameter values in this spreadsheet, just descriptions of the models as they currently exist.

(The modeling group consists of the following people: Stephanie Waldhoff, Steve Newbold, Charles Griffiths, Bryan Hubbell, Chris Moore, Kathleen Cardamone, and myself.)

Is it OK for me to forward this on to Michael?

06/25/2009 05:46 PM

Charles,

Just a bit of background on the task you just signed up for:

On July 27-28, a delegation of officials from China will come here for the Strategic and Economic Dialogue. The "strategic" piece of this is led by State, the "economic" piece by Treasury. On July 27, the meeting will open with greetings from President Obama. There will follow a plenary session on climate and energy led by Secs. Clinton and Geithner. Following that there will be a "breakout" session (State has also referred to this as a "special session") lasting an hour. At this session, Lisa Jackson will play a role. It sounds like she will be asked to give a presentation on U.S. domestic policy concerning climate, but details have been somewhat fuzzy on this. In the afternoon of July 27, there will be a three-hour session with several different U.S. agencies and their Chinese counterparts. EPA will have about half an hour of that time. We expect to devote that time to two issues: 1) discussing (and, we hope, agreeing to) an MOU on GHG inventories, and 2) SO2 trading.

Sarah Sowell from OAR is drafting a short memo on EPA's part in this discussion.

There are many details and nuances and moving parts to this, but this at least gives you the broad outlines. Thanks for taking this on. I think it should be interesting and fun.

Cynthia,

Thanks for sharing this with me. This looks like the beginning of a terrific program. You all should send the notice out when you can. I would just add that, given the interest in all things related to climate, you should give the press office a heads up if you haven't already done so.

I'd love to hear more about the program when you all have a chance. Please ask my assistant, Georgia Bednar, to find a spot on my schedule for this purpose.

Subject: FR Notice for NDWAC Climate Ready Water Utilities Working Group

Lisa,

I know you are busy and I don't want to add to your workload, but because you are involved with everything climate change, I am sending for your review a copy of a federal register notice to solicit members for a new working group to provide advice on the Office of Water's climate ready water utilities initiative. This notice simply solicits nominations for workgroup members for a workgroup of the National Drinking Water Advisory Council. We would like to move this notice as soon as possible so that we can begin this work, so please let me know if we can provide any additional information.

By way of background, OW is in the process of developing a climate ready water utilities program that will enable drinking water and wastewater utilities to develop and implement long-range plans that account for climate change impacts. Under this program, OW will generate practical tools and training for water and wastewater utility managers, decision makers, and engineers to assess the individual utility's vulnerabilities to climate change, elevate awareness among water utilities of climate change impacts and adaptation options, and institutionalize adaptation measures as part of decision making at the utility level.

One of our first activities in developing the program is the formation of a working group under our standing FACA group, the National Drinking Water Advisory Council (NDWAC). This past month, the NDWAC unanimously and enthusiastically approved forming a working group to (1) develop criteria for what would constitute a climate ready water utility, (2) identify gaps in tools and training relevant to assessing climate change impacts, adaptation options, and even mitigation measures for the water industry, and (3) develop incentives to encourage water utilities' adoption of the climate ready criteria from (1).

The FR notice attached (NDWAC CRUWWG) describes this charge in addition to the selection criteria for working group membership. A NDWAC workgroup is made up of a subset of NDWAC members and several other experts -- the workgroup reports back to the full NDWAC, which then provides advice to EPA.

Please contact me or my division director (David Travers at 564-4638) if you have any questions on this notice. We would be pleased to brief you in greater detail on the Climate Ready work if you have the interest and time.

Billy, Lisa and Casey,

In preparation for this Friday's IPC, we have drafted a proposed text for the Clean Energy and Climate Partnership (attached). I have also attached here a copy of the Ten Year Framework agreement from last year that we used to guide us, as the TYF is incorporated in the new partnership and its text has already been agreed by the Chinese.

Please let us know if you have any thoughts on this before we send around inter-agency. We have been asked by NSC to circulate tomorrow a version of this in advance of the IPC, and then we will incorporate input before sharing with the Chinese next week when I fly back to Beijing. There will, of course be another several rounds of this before the S&ED.

Thanks!

Dear Lisa,

Here you go. I shared this with key OAR staff, so this represents our collective thinking. Since the CECF is going to be discussed at the Climate IPC meeting that Gina and Beth will be attending tomorrow, it would be helpful to know if there are any comments that you decide not to pass on to DOS.

Let me know if you have any questions.

| Optional: | Georgia Bednar/DC/USEPA/US@EPA, Shela Poke-Williams/DC/USEPA/US@EPA, Stephanie Washington/DC/USEPA/US@EPA, |

Description*Topics of Discussion (from BP):

"A. BP and climate change: (1) we are active on the current legislative proposals and are seeking a cap and trade system and how we see it fit with BP plans in the U.S., we are members of US Climate Action Partnership (USCAP) and active in other forums such as Pew etc. (2) we have been working hard on the Greenhouse Gas Reporting proposed rule, with particular focus on the oil and gas sector.

B. BP and Fuels: the Ethanol Blendwall and the RFS2 regulatory efforts are important for BP, both from our Downstream refinery supply side, but also for our new BP Biofuels business, where we are engaged in advancing advanced cellulosic fuels too.

C. BP has also been actively engaged with the EPA air staff on the New Source Performance Standards (NSPS J/Ja) rules for refineries, which is still an active issue."

FR Notice for NDWAC Climate Ready Water Utilities Working Group*Cynthia Dougherty to: Lisa Heinzerling

06/25/2009 11:55 AM

Cc: Mike Shapiro, Nanci Gelb, David Travers

History: This message has been replied to.

Lisa,

I know you are busy and I don't want to add to your workload, but because you are involved with everything climate change, I am sending for your review a copy of a federal register notice to solicit members for a new working group to provide advice on the Office of Water's climate ready water utilities initiative. This notice simply solicits nominations for workgroup members for a workgroup of the National Drinking Water Advisory Council. We would like to move this notice as soon as possible so that we can begin this work, so please let me know if we can provide any additional information.

By way of background, OW is in the process of developing a climate ready water utilities program that will enable drinking water and wastewater utilities to develop and implement long-range plans that account for climate change impacts. Under this program, OW will generate practical tools and training for water and wastewater utility managers, decision makers, and engineers to assess the individual utility's vulnerabilities to climate change, elevate awareness among water utilities of climate change impacts and adaptation options, and institutionalize adaptation measures as part of decision making at the utility level.

One of our first activities in developing the program is the formation of a working group under our standing FACA group, the National Drinking Water Advisory Council (NDWAC). This past month, the NDWAC unanimously and enthusiastically approved forming a working group to (1) develop criteria for what would constitute a climate ready water utility, (2) identify gaps in tools and training relevant to assessing climate change impacts, adaptation options, and even mitigation measures for the water industry, and (3) develop incentives to encourage water utilities' adoption of the climate ready criteria from (1).

The FR notice attached (NDWAC CRUWWG) describes this charge in addition to the selection criteria for working group membership. A NDWAC workgroup is made up of a subset of NDWAC members and several other experts -- the workgroup reports back to the full NDWAC, which then provides advice to EPA.

Please contact me or my division director (David Travers at 564-4638) if you have any questions on this notice. We would be pleased to brief you in greater detail on the Climate Ready work if you have the interest and time.

EPA Suppresses Internal Global Warming Study

CEI Calls for Agency to Release Concealed Report

Washington, D.C. -- The Competitive Enterprise Institute today charged that a senior official of the U.S. Environment Protection Agency actively suppressed a scientific analysis of climate change because of political pressure to support the Administration's policy agenda of regulating carbon dioxide .

As part of a just-ended public comment period , CEI submitted a set of four EPA emails , dated March 12-17, 2009, which indicate that a significant internal critique of the agency's global warming position was put under wraps and concealed.

The study the emails refer to , which ran counter to the administration's views on carbon dioxide and climate change , was kept from circulating within the agency , was never disclosed to the public , and was not added to the body of materials relevant to EPA's current "endangerment" proceeding . The emails further show that the study was treated in this manner not because of any problem with its quality , but for political reasons .

The emails may be seen here : http://cei.org/cei\_files/fm/active/0/Endangerment%20Comments%206-23-09.pdf

"This suppression of valid science for political reasons is beyond belief ," said CEI General Counsel Sam Kazman . "EPA's conduct is even more outlandish because it flies in the face of the President's widely -touted claim that 'the days of science taking a back seat to ideology are over .'"

CEI's filing requests that EPA make the suppressed study public , place it into the endangerment docket , and extend the comment period to allow public response to the new information . CEI is also requesting that EPA publicly declare that it will engage in no reprisals against the study's author , a senior analyst who has worked at EPA for over 35 years.

CEI is a non-profit, non-partisan public policy group dedicated to the principles of free enterprise and limited government. For more information about CEI, please visit our website at www.cei.org.

Hi Everyone,

I'm attaching two copies of an updated response, one in track changes and one clean. I have updated the text to reflect Jim's comments from yesterday, a few changes on discounting suggested by Bryan and me, and some clarifying text regarding the timing of the process (no interim-interim!).

Please forward to anyone who should have received this email and did not. Thanks!

Stephanie and all,

I've reorganized the discussion a bit, just to make it a little easier to follow and to track Cass's questions more explicitly. I have not tried to alter the substance of the memo. If you have a chance, please take a quick glance at the memo to see if I have erred anywhere. I'd like to send this to Cass et al. as soon as possible. I don't want to provoke a long email discussion; I just want to know whether anyone spots a glaring error in my revisions.

Thanks a lot.

EPA likely can have all of the analysis requested below - except for the comparison to the Micronesia-Mauritius proposal - by next Friday, June 26.

Hi Lisa,

I inadvertently left out some of the references. Please replace the earlier version I sent with this one.

Thanks.

Stephanie

Hi Stephanie,

We noticed that the remaining references didn't get added to the version you sent out. I have added them in the version attached below.

Thanks!

Hi Everyone,

I'm sending this version to Lisa. There has been some wordsmithing and reorganization to make things more readable, but we've tried to include original language as much as possible. Thank you all for the work on this! (Now on to the tables of parameters for Michael...)
